Carmel, IN (February 6, 2018) —The Indiana Association of Chiefs of Police Foundation (IACPF) held their annual awards ceremony and Police Executive Leadership Academy (PELA) graduation last month during the IACP Mid-Winter Conference. Among the honorees, was Chief Tyson Warmoth of the Lebanon Police Department, recipient of the 2017 William Sudbury Memorial Leadership Award.

Indiana has a wealth of law enforcement professionals who go above and beyond the call of duty in pursuit of excellence. The IACP holds an annual awards ceremony in conjunction with the Mid-Winter Conference, to honor and promote excellence within the Indiana Law Enforcement community.

The William Sudbury Memorial Leadership Award is presented annually to the PELA graduate or law enforcement professional who most consistently exemplifies the highest standards of leadership. The criteria for the recipient of this award includes demonstrating an awareness of the need for continuous learning, exhibiting commitment and courage to change things necessary to enhance leadership and organizational effectiveness, consistently modeling true leadership, and promoting personal and organizational accountability toward achieving a clear organizational mission.

Chief Warmoth is a Boone County native, born in Lebanon. As well as being a United States Air Force veteran, he is a 26-year veteran of law enforcement, having served the past 20 years with LPD. He has served in a variety of roles on the department such as a Field Training Officer, Bicycle Patrol, Honor Guard, Emergency Vehicle Ops Instructor, and is proud of his 17 years of membership on the Boone County Special Response Team. Chief Warmoth worked his way up through the ranks of Sergeant, Lieutenant, and Captain before assuming role as Chief of Police.
